Conſtantinople, May 23.

ADVICES from Baſſora of the 24th of January inform us, that the Cheaia of Solyman Paſcha arrived there with a very large Body of Soldiers to bring that City under entire Subjection, as moſt of the Inhabitants ſided with the Captain Paſcha; accordingly they entered in the Night and ſurprized the Place, but the Captain Paſcha, his Family, and many Friends, went on Board the Gallies, and rowed off down the River. The Mutzolem ſoon followed him on board a Dutch Ship then there, with many Soldiers, and took his Harem, Deputy, Secretary, and 13 other of his Officers Priſoners, nine of whom were ſoon beheaded; and the reſt, with the Women, were ſent to Bagdat. The Captain Paſcha, with ſome few People, eſcaped to Bendar Buſhoor. After this Succeſs, the Cheaia put the City under exceſſive high Contributions, and has oppreſſed all the Merchants exceſſively. And by Advices from Baſſora of the 7th of March we are informed, that the Affairs of the Kingdom of Perſia are in a worſe Condition than ever, having at preſent no leſs than five Competitors for the Throne: The very beſt Accounts aſſure us, that the ancient Lores, or Bactrians, who plundered Spahan, have made a great Progreſs in their Conqueſts; and the young Man they have ſet up for King, being of the old Race, induced the People of Shyraſs to deliver their City into his Hands without Reſiſtance; notwithſtanding which, the Place was inſtantly in the utmoſt Confuſion, and all the People carried into Slavery. The Credit of this Acquiſition has occaſioned all the wild Tribes in Zarce, or the Hot Countries, to follow their Fortune, more for the Sake of Plunder than any real Deſign to aſſiſt them. It was imagined Jaroom, Doroob, and Ireſſau, would have made a bold Stand, but they have all ſubmitted themſelves to Slavery, for the Lores make no Diſtinction between Force or voluntary Submiſſion. Lore, which is one of the Chief Cities, and all thoſe Parts of the Kingdom, are in the utmoſt Conſternation; and as the ill Treatment the Engliſh Gentlemen met with at Spahan, left them no room to hope for Favour or Mercy, both they and the Dutch came to a firm Reſolution to leave Gombroon, and 'tis not doubted but that they have done ſo before now, ſo that their grand Scheme of Plundering the two European Factories, where they imagined half the Wealth of Perſia was contained, will prove Abortive. Muſhatt, and the Caraſſan Parts, are alſo in as bad a Situation, by the daily Inroads of the Ophgoons, Tartars, and other wild Neighbours, having no one to protect them, for Shawrooke Shah is certainly Blind, and deſtitute of Money, and conſequently without Friends, ſo that the Kingdom of Perſia is in a moſt deplorable Condition.

Florence, June 18. By Letters from the Port of Stefano, dated June 4, we have Advice, that on the 2d Inſtant, the Duke of Martino, who Commands two Neapolitan Gallies, named the Capitana and St. Gennaro, having received Information that two Corſairs from Barbary, with 60 Men on Board, were then at the Iſland of Giglio, weighed Anchor in the Night from the Port of Ercole, where he then was, and the next Morning was off Giannuti, and as he was ſteering round the Hill in queſt of thoſe Pyrates, a Boat came off to him, the Maſter of which, named Joſaffatta Coppo, of Iſchia, acquainted him, that, an Hour before Day Light, his Bark, loaden with Wine, was taken off the Cannelle by a Barbary Corſair, himſelf and his Crew having eſcaped in their Boat; on Notice whereof the Commodore ſteered northerly by the Bay del Paeſe, and coming round the Bay del Campeſe, he met with one of the Pope's Gallies, who, after having fired ſeveral Guns, had ſent his Boats to take Poſſeſſion of one of thoſe Corſairs, which the Moors had abandoned, as alſo of a Felucca which that Corſair had taken. And the Commodore perceiving the other Corſair behind a ſmall Fort, with the Neapolitan Bark he had taken that Morning, came to an Anchor directly fronting him; and, manning the Boats of both Gallies, ſent them with Directions to bring off the Neapolitan Bark. But the Commander of the Fort declaring he could not poſſibly permit them to do it, without firſt acquainting the Governor of the Iſland, the Neapolitans landed Part of their Men, who poſted themſelves within half a Muſket's Shot of the Moors, and were waiting for the Governor's Anſwer, when the Corſair began to Fire upon them; and at the ſame Time the Governor acquainted them, that if they did not go on board again, he would alſo Fire upon them, as he immediately did ſeveral Muſket Shot, which ſo encouraged the Crew of the Corſair taken by the Pope's Gally, that they likewiſe put themſelves in a Poſture to attack the Neapolitans, who were then obliged to ſecure themſelves in two Houſes, and to keep firing continually upon the Moors, in order to keep them off. During this Encounter the Neapolitans, who were left in the Boats, boarded and carried off to the Gallies, the Corſair, and its Prize, with 15 Moors on board. The Fort then fired againſt the the Gallies, who returned the Fire to protect and ſecure the Retreat of the Neapolitans from the Shore. The firing on both Sides laſted about two Hours, during which five Moors were killed, and ſix wounded, three of them mortally, but the Commodore had only one Sailor wounded.

Whitehall, June 18, 1751.

Whereas it has been repreſented to the King, That on the 11th Inſtant, at Night, Mr. William Fargues was robbed, and cruelly murdered, by Perſons unknown, in the Paſſage between the Barking Dogs, and Windmill Hill, in the Pariſh of Saint Luke, in the County of Middleſex; His Majeſty, for the better Diſcovery of the Perſons concerned in the ſaid Robbery, and Murder, is pleaſed to promiſe his moſt gracious Pardon to any one of them (except the Perſon who actually committed the Murder) that ſhall diſcover his Accomplice, or Accomplices, ſo that he, ſhe, or they, may be apprehended and convicted thereof. HOLLES NEWCASTLE.

And, as a further Encouragement, for the diſcovering, and bringing to Juſtice, the Perſon, or Perſons, concerned in the ſaid Robbery, and Murder, Mr. Peter Fargues, Maſter of the French Academy at Hoxton, does, hereby, promiſe a Reward, of Twenty-five Guineas, to any one (except the Perſon that actually committed the Murder) who ſhall diſcover his, or her, Accomplice, or Accomplices, in the ſaid Facts, ſo that he, ſhe, or they, may be apprehended and convicted thereof.
